Product Description

This delicious Organic Prairie product is 100% grass-fed organically produced, 85% lean ground beef for just the right proportion of lean to fat for the juiciest burgers and beef dishes. Organic Prairie beef cattle are humanely raised on small family farms where they roam organic pastures and enjoy an organic vegetarian feed diet. Organic Prairie defines humanely raised as access to fresh air, outdoors, sufficient space and shelter so our animals can express natural behaviour; these practices are in accordance with USDA Organic standards.

Organic Prairie is not a faceless corporation. We are an independent cooperative of organic family farms. True pioneers of the organic meats and poultry movement, we began producing our delicious meats and poultry organically back in 1996 and played a vital role in shaping federal organic meat certification standards. Organic Prairie family farms are USDA-National Organic Program (NOP) certified, and so do not use antibiotics, synthetic hormones, toxic pesticides, or synthetic fertilizers, and never use genetically modified (GMO) organisms on their farms. We also go above and beyond accepted USDA standards. Unlike some USDA Organic Certified meat producers, every single batch of Organic Prairie meat and poultry production is tested for bacteria to ensure your safety.

Directions: Cook to internal temperature of 160 degrees F.

From The Manufacturer

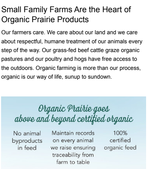
Organic Before Organic Was Cool

The Family Farmers Pioneering the Organic Meat and Poultry Industry

Organic Prairie is not a faceless corporation. We are an independent cooperative of organic family farms. True pioneers of the organic meat and poultry movement, we began producing our delicious meat and poultry organically back in 1996. We played a vital role in shaping federal organic meat certification standards.

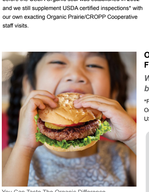
Certified Organic Meat and Poultry Always Organic, Always Non-GMO

Organic farmers do not use antibiotics, synthetic hormones, toxic pesticides, or synthetic fertilizers, and never use genetically modified (GMO) organisms on their farms. If your personal health, the environment, and a more sustainable future are important to you, look for the USDA organic seal when you buy meat and poultry.



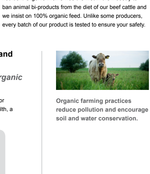
Small Family Farms Are the Heart of Organic Prairie Products

Our farmers care. We care about our land and we care about respectful, humane treatment of our animals every step of the way. Our grass-fed beef cattle graze organic pastures and our poultry and hogs have free access to the outdoors. Organic farming is more than our process, organic is our way of life, sunup to sundown.



We insisted on third-party organic meat certification long before the USDA Organic seal was established in 2002 and we still supplement USDA certified inspections* with our own exacting Organic Prairie/CROPP Cooperative staff visits.

The National Organic Program (NOP) is a regulatory program within the USDA Agricultural Marketing Service responsible for assuring that products with the USDA organic seal meet consistent, uniform standards for organically-produced agricultural products.



USDA-NOP regulations do not address food safety or nutrition. Organic Prairie was the first in the industry to ban animal bi-products from the diet of our beef cattle and we insist on 100% organic feed. Unlike some producers, every batch of our product is tested to ensure your safety.

You Can Taste The Organic Difference

Organic Beef With Exceptional Freshness and Flavor

What does it mean to be labeled certified organic by the USDA National Organic Program?

*Farms that supply livestock and all plants that produce products for Organic Prairie farm operations are Certified Organic by Oregon Tilth, a USDA-National Organic Program accredited certifier, 2018.

- The National Organic Program (NOP) was created by the USDA
- Specific requirements must be verified by a USDA-accredited agent to be labeled USDA Organic
- Organic operations must protect natural resources, conserve biodiversity and use approved substances
- The USDA Organic seal certifies that the product has 95 percent or more organic content
- USDA Organic limits the type and quantity of chemicals that come into contact with food

Organic farming practices reduce pollution and encourage soil and water conservation.

Better From Pasture to Plate

Organic Beef as Good as it Possibly Can Be

Our careful, hands-on approach to raising beef cattle on organic grasses and grains results in beef that's as good as it possibly can be, with lower fat content and calories, higher levels of beneficial Omega-3 fatty acids and richer flavor than conventional grain-fed beef.

Organic Pork With a the Rich Flavor of Fresh Air and Sunshine

Our pigs are raised unconfined and bedded on thick straw, given plenty of room to roam, and provided with access to fresh air and sunshine. This extra care results in rich, delicious organic pork with a difference you can taste.

The Most Delicious Organic Poultry You Will Find

Our poultry roams freely, with access to the open air and are fed only 100% certified organic feeds. They are the tastiest, most delicious poultry on the market today, and are raised according to the strictest humane treatment and organic production standards.
